Hi,
11/21/98

Quite a few months ago, I refinished my Springfield 1911A1 with your semi-gloss black Moly Resin, after about 1,000 rounds through the gun, it still looks great!

I plan on getting some modifications done to the frame and will have to refinish it again, but was thinking about using your Stainless Steel Moly Resin. I know in your literature it says it is for small parts like rings and bases, but was wondering if it would have a good appearance on a larger part like a 1911 frame? Do you know of any customers who have used it on such an application?

Please let me know. Once again thanks for a great product!
